DUCKS AT LARGE

OUTLOOK

The Ducks improved on their previous season's success by advancing beyond the second round of the playoffs, to within one win of the Stanley Cup finals. Once again, bowing out to the eventual Stanley Cup Champions, this time to the Chicago Blackhawks.

Last season's acquisition of Ryan Kesler payed dividends in the post season, and the 31-year old veteran was re-signed to a six-year contract extension, that carries an AAV of $6,875,000. GM Bob Murray has done a magnificent job managing his teams cap, but it remains to be seen if Kesler will continue to a relevant factor until he turns 37.

The emergence of Hampus Lindholm and Sami Vatanen on the blueline was a revelation, and along with Cam Fowler, the trio will anchor the Ducks back end for the foreseeable future. The loss of Veteran Francois Beauchemin will be mitigated with the addition of Kevin Bieksa.

Murray added more depth up front as well, acquiring speedster Carl Hagelin from the Rangers, and signing free agent power forward Chris Stewart and depth centre Shawn Horcoff. Along with the veteran acquisitions, Anaheim will be looking for continued development from young players such as Jakob Silfverberg, Patrick Maroon and Rickard Rakell. 2014 first-round selection Nick Ritchie will look to make the jump from junior to the pro ranks and will challenge for a roster spot on the big team.

In goal, John Gibson and Frederik Anderson both performed admirably and have bright futures, but were also injured for a stretch, leaving the Ducks vulnerable as they were forced to turn to Ilya Bryzgalov out of desperation. In an effort to avoid a repeat Murray added goalie Anton Khudobin to insulate the crease.

Anaheim continues to trend in the right direction, and is poised to join the elite ranks along with Chicago and Los Angeles, who dispatched the Ducks the last two playoffs in a row. With a strong mix of veterans and youth, expect the Ducks to pass the 100 point level, and be in the hunt for another Stanley Cup.

Rob Vollman's Analysis: Superstars Ryan Getzlaf and Corey Perry were not quite as dominant as usual, relative to the rest of the team. Either the team around them has really improved, or the two long-time Ducks are simply slowing down as they enter their 30s – or a bit of both.

Few teams can boast a blue line as young and affordable as Anaheim's last year. Hampus Lindholm, Sami Vatanen, Cam Fowler, Simon Despres, and Josh Manson were all between 21 and 23 years old, and carried a combined cap hit of just over $7.5 million. Fowler took a step back this year, but Lindholm and Vatanen both had breakout seasons.

Among the team's abundance of young, secondary forwards, Jakob Silfverberg really stands out. Like the better known shutdown center Ryan Kesler, Silfverberg is a complete, 200-foot player who can contribute in all game situations, and one of the team's most underrated and notable young talents.

Notes .. Captain led the team in scoring for the third straight season and to the conference final with some mixed performances along the way .. registering sixty percent of his points in the first half with 42 points in 38 games, bolstered by a brilliant second quarter (21-8-19-27) - versus 28 in 39 games to end the season . finished sixth in playoff scoring and posted the best points per game (past the first round), yet failed to score a goal in the final 11 playoff games - accumulating a dozen assists (11-0-12-12) - with a career low shooting percentage of 4.2% .. failed to register a shot on goal in five of the final 25 games — missing two April games for rest according to coaching staff .. well off his pace, he recorded two power play points after January 30 (28-1-1-2) contributing to a career low 3.33 Pts/60 at 5v4, earning a point on 63.2% of on-ice goals and generating 17% less individual shot attempts than '13-14 – scoring just three goals, tying his rookie season – scoring only 18.6% of his points on the power play compared to an average of over 30% for the previous three seasons .. at 5v5, he produced 25% less goals while earning a point on a career high 85.5% of on-ice goals, fuelled by 21 primary assists on 29 helpers .. highly-skilled playmaker with terrific athleticism for a big man boasts superb patience and protection skills, supported by soft, strong hands .. deploys a booming shot .. threw pucks at the net haphazardly last season — doing most damage around the top of the crease .. increasingly more physical and diligent defensively .. stops moving his feet at times and suffers lapses in discipline and focus and is prone to obstruction and aggression fouls .. awkward and reckless delivering hits .. rehabbed a sports hernia diagnosed in June, no surgery required but monitor before your draft .. should lead the team again with upside with a return to power play form.

Notes .. Former University of Michigan standout was traded to the Ducks by the Blueshirts at the NHL draft for long-time Duck, Emerson Etem .. a solid fit on a second line, helping to solidify a strong two-way scoring unit .. third line duties alongside fellow speed merchant Cogliano is also intriguing .. scored twice in 19 playoff games (2-3-5) with a miserable 5.6 Sh% - following up a pedestrian regular season tying 17 goal career high and pushing points to 35 – firing career high 185 shots on goal .. brave, hyper-active speedster .. not overly big or powerful – yet remarkably resilient – and stronger than he appears .. competes fearlessly along the boards .. solid, speedy option will be a welcome addition to an already quick lineup .. stopped in a penalty shot in Game four versus Washington .. scored eight goals in 31 games (31-8-8-16) and another six in a 14-game one-month span at the end of January (14-6-5-11) .. earned a point on 59.6% of on-ice goals – tying the 12 from 13-14 and posting virtually identical stat lines skating with free agent signing Kevin Hayes (58.2 GF% & 52 CF%) and a variety of third additions .. dynamic skater – light and agile, explosive off the mark – and with a unique ability to accelerate while transitioning between crossovers and his full stride - without compromising balance or edge control .. manufactures space simply by making a sharp cut, reversal, or lateral shift .. good penalty-killer and tireless two-way worker powered by a non-stop engine and great tenacity .. could be more poised in possession and allow plays to develop – as he does have vision and creativity .. good candidate for career numbers if he gets even minimal power play time.

The elder statesman among a great young defense core at 24-years old with 5 seasons under his belt, after surprising as an 18-year old with 40 points, and much scrutiny .. joins Vatanen (24) and Lindholm (21) as a young core and working to develop into a more mature, stable performer, rather than offensive kingpin .. partnered mostly alongside Ben Lovejoy (58.1 GF% & 51.1 CF%) before he was moved for Simon Despres at the trade deadline – then partnering with the young Penguin (41.7 GF% & 50.4 CF%) .. peaked with a 5v5 Pts/60 of 1.11 in mid-November after a solid start (16-2-8-10), slowing decaying until settling with 0.81 - good... smooth and strong on his edges ... reaches an elite top speed with just a few powerful strokes ... swift in recovery, especially closing gaps defending the rush — supported in 3-of-4 quarters, but blanked in the final quarter as the team fizzled with the man advantage .. shot out of the gate scoring nine goals in the first 28 games (13.1% sh%) and three more in the remaining (34-3-10-13, 5.39% sh%) .. led NHL defensemen with 2.17 G/60 and earned a point on 81% of all 5v4 goals with him on the ice — scoring 33.33% himself Placing him 6th in the league with 5.28 Pts/60 .. finished all his per 60 rates as an elite 1st pairing defender at 5v5 and 5v4 .. tiny adventurous puckmover and talented all-access skater, powered by quick, nimble feet .. light and fluid with exceptional lateral agility and acceleration quickness .. doesn't lose upper-body form or puck contact during seamless transitions .. excels on breakouts – makes solid outlet plays and knows how to utilize his mobility to open lanes .. carries the puck effortlessly and can execute in top gear – backed by a good, accurate right-handed by excellent athleticism and flexibility - not as proficient moving backwards - and can get caught at wrong angles to the puck .. failed to deliver a shot on goal in 24 games .. a slushy mid-season included a 27-game goals drought (featuring 10 games without a shot on goal) .. the team lack of shots/60 when on the ice compared to off t sees a late season juxtaposition where more 5v5 shots were being generated without him -relegated to the 2nd power play unit eroding 5v4 time .. excels in transition, displaying good skill and tempo on outlets – with a flair for long accurate stretch passes .. increasingly assertive as a physical presence along the boards, yet not as diligent patrolling the crease .. comes up soft in net-front battles, relying mostly on his stickwork .. consistency needed to eclipse the 40-point barrier.

Notes .. Ambitious, spirited young Swede led the Ducks in 5v5 ice time and 2nd in overall time on ice per game (21:45), while leading the Ducks blueline with 28 even strength points and a 59.8% GF% - on a team high 9.65% on-ice shooting percentage .. partnered mostly with outgoing mentor Francois Beachemin (61.9 GF% & 51.4 CF%) ... big, strong and industrious rearguard with smarts and exceptional mobility .. assertive, take-charge - exudes a self-assuredness beyond his years .. strong deceiving skater .. not elegant – has some ungainly lunges and awkward moments – yet generates excellent propulsion and top speed .. mixed and matched defence partners mid-November until is the fore Christmas (330 minutes – 60% GF% & 51.59 CF%) ... matched his '13-14 5v5 statline almost identically (5-20-25 – with 4-13-17 at games close) with a slight bump in shooting percentage (7.04%) and points earned on goals while on the ice (team high – 41%) – doing so while facing 25% less on-ice GF/60 .. has registered a plus 49 over the last two seasons, finishing second among defenseman in the NHL .. came alive in the playoffs—despite a 9-game funk with only one assist to end the season—recording at least three points in each round .. featured on the second unit power play - sometimes even as a lone defenseman at the top of the zone .. bold, aggressive puckmover – hands are quick and decently skilled .. anticipates and processes the game .. does overextend himself at times, overhandling the puck .. tough, spirited and still developing patience the future is bright for the 21-yr old entering his third campaign first pairing defenseman who should take a step forward offensively on the last year of his entry level deal.

Notes .. An unusual sophomore campaign in which his stats took a step backward from his rookie season, but finished sixth in the league with 35 wins .. most concerning in the second half where Andersen looked a bit worn down after starting almost twice as many games .. his playoff performance was steady until he faced Chicago where the goalie became unglued in some games .. a concern with John Gibson ready to step up .. the increased load on Andersen dropped his even strength save percentage to only .922 and his goals saved above average dropped to a -0.43... the problem is even at a load less than 55 games, Andersen showed bouts of breaking down .. he will only be 26 in October but Anaheim needs to see if he can keep his numbers stable .. if not, then Gibson may just see more playing time as the two goalie trend is starting to take shape again .. Anaheim only allowed around 27 shots per Andersen start so he must be better in high danger scenario .. defensively the Ducks can limit chances when they clamp down and their top six is as punishing and feisty as they com .. also had nine really bad starts (save percentage of .850 or less) after having zero in 2013-1 .. starts the year as the number one but a less than stellar camp again opens the door for Gibson .. and the recently acquired Khudobin to provide further competition .. Danish netminder will always be kind of looking over his shoulder in Anaheim and maybe that is a good thing .. the short window in Anaheim means step up or step aside.

Proved a vital acquisition by Sault Ste. Marie, catching fire down the stretch and into the playoffs .. won gold with Team Canada at the U20's as part of a pounding bottom-line which played a key role, after beginning the tournament on the top line (7-1-0-1) .. strong hulking power winger boasts a quick, heavy shot plus notable quickness and lateral skating agility for a big man .. an assertive physical presence who has made gains in his defensive play and work consistency - areas that must keep improving at the pro level .. not one to drop the gloves frequently, but capable of defending a big hit .. another large body up front for Anaheim who was drafted in the top ten to ultimately play with Getzlaf and Perry - perhaps as soon as this season.

Topped all WHL blueliners with a 1.12 points-per-game average, appearing in just 43 games after suffering an elbow injury at Anaheim's camp .. led Seattle in playoff scoring (6-3-6-9) and also produced during his AHL debut .. delivered a strong performance for Team Canada to win gold at the U20 WJC (7-1-1-2) .. a bold and skilled defenceman propelled by a fast forward gear and a thirst for attacking .. strikes with a quick, accurate wristshot released in full flight .. gradually maturing as a puckmover, learning to make better risk assessments .. progressing as a defender, showing better patience one-on-one and utilizing his acceleration to aggressively close and manage gaps .. elite mobility in all four directions helps compensate for improper reads and decisions .. skating/puck skills equate to a top-four NHL defenceman role with proper development.

Frolunda (Swe Jr)		30	8	11	19	49	0.63

Drafted late in the first round of the 2015 draft after playing 20 games in the SHL as a 17 and 18-year-old .. impressed for Sweden at the U18's and with Frolunda's J20 program, racking up eight goals from the back end in just 30 games (19 points) .. big, strong, mobile two-way defender .. accurate shot .. excellent backwards skater, hard to beat one-on-one wide as a result .. lacks physical presence despite his size .. good lateral agility with a feathery change of direction with the puck - strong puck handler .. active defender in the defensive zone, doesn't watch the play develop, goes after it, which can be a blessing and a curse .. doesn't take advantage of his skating abilities offensively .. leaves you wanting more .. projects as a number four or five defenceman for the Ducks.

Norfolk (AHI)		27	7	a	16	27	0.50

Suffered significant injuries his first two pro seasons, first blowing out his knee the first week of 2013-14 - and returning for the second round of the AHL playoffs .. then suffered a torn Achilles tendon five games into the 2014-15 AHL season, returning in February to play 27 games .. excellent hand-eye coordination - skilled at tips .. strong on his stick .. knows what to do as a puck manager .. stride is stiff .. bowlegged .. acceleration on first few steps has strengthened .. crossover startup stride is awkward .. takes smart routes to shooting spots .. has instincts to alter angle of body to better receive pass .. uses spin-around shot to surprise goalies and create rebounds .. generates everything with his hustle .. shows greater purpose away from the puck physical, willing bodychecker .. third-line NHL upside.

Nic KERDILES	LW	21	6-1/200	RANK	5	OVERALL	168
TEAM		GP	G	Α	PTS	PIM	PPG
Norfolk (AHI)		51	9	17	26	43	0.51

Kerdiles' first pro season was an eye opener for the former top-40 NHL pick as he struggled to produce, scoring just nine goals in 51 games for Norfolk .. good cruising speed with the puck, able to employ nice speed bursts, above average skating power and speed .. strong finishing abilities around the net, and decent offensive vision for creating plays .. flashes a competitive physical side but tends to bounce off checks .. his compete level can be sporadic, will stop moving his feet in defensive backchecking assignments .. defensive reads and positioning are areas to focus on in his sophomore season .. good shot-blocker .. will need to learn to fight through physical play, get stronger, and produce at the AHL level before he can compete for a top three NHL left-wing spot.
